ENGAGE+

C case study

C case study

Background

- Turbulent family background which impacted on living circumstances
- Referred to Engage Plus through Northampton College due to a lack of engagement
- Often partaking in anti-social behaviour and barred from retail and entertainment sites
- Had been suspended from the Engage Plus programme for two weeks, due to threatening behaviour, attitude rapidly changed as a result.

Interventions

- Successfully engaged four days a week in classroom sessions and enrichment activities
- Completed a variety of hands-on work experience to improve employability
- Positive relationships made with staff and peers creating healthy, sociable and trust working environment
- Successfully achieved 5 accredited qualifications

"Engage Plus, in partnership with Northampton College, provided the platform for C to embed his own learning style and thrive. He was able to express self and overcome barriers to learning through a well-structured approach".

Craig Phillips, Employability Lead

Now

- With the help of the Foundation he has now found a passion to take up a career in mechanical engineering and has successfully progressed onto a mechanical engineering traineeship with a local company
- Plans to progress onto further studies at Northampton College completing a Level 2 auto mechanical engineering
